- STRABAG acquires 50% stake in R:loaded SE
- Acquisition strengthens the Group's strategic focus on electromobility

STRABAG AG has acquired a 50% stake in R:loaded SE from econX. Capital GmbH. The company specialises in the operation and management of charging infrastructure. The acquisition marks STRABAG's targeted entry into the operation of charging infrastructure for passenger cars, heavy goods vehicles (HGVs) and company fleets. With this transaction, STRABAG expands its activities in the electromobility business beyond the construction of charging points while also strengthening its position in one of the key growth areas of the mobility transition.

End-to-end charging infrastructure solutions

The strategic partnership will enable STRABAG to offer comprehensive end-to-end solutions for public tenders and projects for industrial and logistics customers.

> Electromobility is developing rapidly and is a key component of sustainable transport infrastructure. Expanding the charging network and providing fast-charging capabilities are essential to making this a reality. By acquiring a stake in R:loaded, we are strategically expanding our service portfolio, enabling us to support our customers across the entire value chain in the future.

Joint expansion of Germany's fast-charging network for heavy goods vehicles

An important milestone in the partnership was already achieved in the summer of 2026 when, together with R:loaded and technology partner eLoaded, STRABAG secured the contract for Lot 4 of Autobahn GmbH's nationwide fast-charging network for electric heavy goods vehicles (eHGVs). The project involves the installation of 140 eHGV charging points at 25 unserviced motorway rest areas in southern and western Germany. R:loaded will be responsible for operating and managing the locations until mid-2034. The project forms part of Autobahn GmbH's nationwide charging infrastructure programme being rolled out on behalf of the Federal Ministry of Transport.
