- Comprehensive structural and technological revitalisation of the 1980 metro station
- Major urban infrastructure project in Prague
- Total contract value: approx. € 52 million (CZK 1.3 billion)

Prague/Vienna, 16 July 2025 STRABAG a.s., the Czech subsidiary of STRABAG SE, as the leading partner of a consortium, has been awarded a contract to modernise Prague's Flora metro station. The project, worth approximately € 52 million, includes the complete revitalisation of both public and non-public areas of the station, with a focus on sustainability and accessibility.

The scope of the modernisation includes replacing the existing escalators, which span an elevation of 24.6 metres, with energy-efficient models. The project also includes the implementation of barrier-free access. The new accessibility route will connect the platform to the interchange corridor and lead to a minimalist above-ground lift kiosk at street level.

"We are pleased to contribute our technical expertise to complex urban infrastructure modernisation projects," says Moritz Freyborn, member of the Management Board of STRABAG a.s. "This project is a logical continuation of the successful renovation of the Jiřího z Poděbrad metro station and the ongoing construction of the new Olbrachtova metro station, further strengthening our position in the field of infrastructure development and sustainable mobility."

Located approximately 25 metres below Olšany Cemetery, Flora station presents a technically challenging project in the city centre. The modernisation will be carried out by a consortium led by STRABAG a.s., which holds a 67% share, alongside OHLA ŽS, a.s., with a 33% share.
